Cortec® Case History 317: Superior Corrosion Protection of Engines with VpCI®-126

A Brazilian automotive manufacturer was disappointed when the bags they used to package engines for shipment from Brazil to France failed to stop corrosion. The customer wanted a multi-metal protection solution involving nitrate-free bags that would be safe for users to handle.

VpCI®-126 bags saved the day by supplying the necessary corrosion protection, and the customer knew the best product had been selected for the job!
