From its very beginning in May 1945, the ZFDE (The Youth Cultural and Artistic Society "Joža Vlahović" at that time) was dedicated to performing artistically formed folklore of certain villages and areas of Croatia.

The Zagreb folk dance ensemble "Dr Ivan Ivančan" is the largest and the most successful promoter of the Croatian folklore. A continuing high quality of the ensemble has resulted in many travels and performances on almost all important festivals and competitions in the world.

Program wise, the greatest strength of the ensemble are two-hour concerts where the concept, beauty and the value of the choreography, songs, music playing and technical performance, the stature and the youth of the ensemble comes to its full bloom. All those things make their performance impressive, and artistically valuable. Their ability to perform such shows many times in a row is a quality of top performers.

The ZFDE has confirmed that on numerous concert performances all over the world, presenting Croatian traditional culture in the famous concert halls: "Queen Elizabeth Hall" in Londonu and "Town Hall" in Birminghamu (England), "Sapru House" and "Music Concert Hall" in New Delhi, and "Homi Babha Auditorium" in Bombay, "Pitman Theater" in Millwaukee (Wisconsin, USA), "Hart Plaza" in Detroit (Michigan, USA), "Duquesne University" in Duquesne, Pittsburgh (Pennsylvania, USA), "Georgetown University" in Washington (Washington D. C., USA), "Kemal Ataturk Concert Hall" in Istanbul (Turkey), "Deutsches Teater" and "Prinzregenten Teater" in Munich, "Stadtteater" in Ingolstadt, "Palmengarten" in Frankfurt (Germany), "Arnele Romane" in Bucharest (Romania), "Nationaltheatre" in Luxor (Egypt), "De Doelen" in Rotterdam and "Vondel Park" in Amstedamu (the Netherlands), "Expotheater" in Montreal (Canada), "Teatro Municipal" in Madrid, Gihon i Valladolid (Spain), "L odet Palace" in Quimper and "Lino Ventura" in Nice, "Opera house" in Antibes (France), "Teatro Peruano Japones" in Lima (Peru), "Auditorio Belgrano" in Buenos Aires (Argentina) and in many others.
