

NEWS ALERT

Meet Sean Wingfield: A New Cortec® Coach at Your Side

We are pleased to introduce Cortec's newest Customer Service Representative, Sean Wingfield! As a former educational assistant and coach of junior high football, baseball, and basketball, Sean is now ready to come alongside and support you in your Cortec® journey.

Sean's main role will be processing and verifying purchase orders from U.S. customers. This will involve interacting with a variety of internal departments as well as Cortec® distributors throughout the continental U.S.

Sean knows both from his own experience and his current studies in Behavioral Strategy how important adaptive, effective communication is. He is therefore committed to using clear communication, teamwork, consistency, and a positive attitude to build relationships of trust and consistency with the Cortec® family to provide the best customer service possible!

Please join us in welcoming Sean to the team next time you place an order!
