Seville (Spain) September 9-13 2019

Cortec® European Group at the Largest Scientific Corrosion Conference – EuroCorr!

The annual conference of the European Federation of Corrosion, EUROCORR, is a flagship event in the field of European corrosion science. Hosts of this year's event were the Sociedad Española des Materiales and SOCIEMAT, together with the European Federation of Corrosion and DECHEMA. The 2019 conference took place this September at the Barceló Sevilla Renacimiento in beautiful Seville, Spain. As usual, the Cortec® Corporation/EcoCortec® team was present at our joint booth, which attracted many visitors and generated interest among companies from various fields, especially the oil and gas sector.

Cortec® Corporation with its partners presented three research papers at the symposium. Ivan Stojanovic, PhD, from the Faculty of Mechanical Engineering and Naval Architecture, University of Zagreb, presented a research paper on “The effect of VpCI® chemical pre-treatment on adhesion of organic coatings.” During a poster session, Ivana Liposcak, MCI® Technical Sales Manager for Europe, presented a paper on “Migratory Corrosion Inhibitors technology for improving durability of Europe’s bridges infrastructures.” Ivana Soic, mag. appl. chem. assistant from the Faculty of Chemical Engineering and Technology, University of Zagreb, gave a lecture on “Development of method for the inhibitor efficiency assessment in the concrete reinforcement based on EIS.” The conference’s social program was also carefully prepared to further enhance the exchange of information between attendees.

Cortec’s team and partners were present at this year’s EuroCorr conference in Spain where they participated in the exhibition and presented several technical papers.

As a company that puts an emphasis on product development and innovation, Cortec® is very proud of our long-term cooperation with the scientific community around the world. The EuroCorr conference is always an excellent platform where companies, scientists, and representatives of research institutions and industry come together, exchange valuable information and create new business opportunities. With our presence, Cortec® once again demonstrated its leadership in technical innovation and in the overall corrosion protection industry.
